Attendance was our goal for this year and one action for next year could be the principal making an IRIS alert before the school year starts reminding parents of school hours and reminding parents that attendance counts.

Ms. Tompkins suggests recognition of students in monthly newsletter who had perfect attendance for the month.

Also, reminders in monthly newsletter shouting out which grade levels did a great job with attendance for the month.

Suggestion for attendance counselor to make positive phone calls for parents as well as phone calls for students who have attendance concerns.

At ice cream social at beginning of the year, remind parents about the attendance and explain/review school calendar.

Reminder of snow days on school calendar at the beginning of the year.

Patty could research attendance stickers as a reinforcement for students instead of certificates each week.

Focus for next year will be to complete school compact by the end of December.
